Who we are: the suspension specialist

As suspension specialist Wilbers Products, we have been based in Nordhorn on the Dutch border, since 1985. From here, our customised suspensions, configured according to customer wishes and requirements, are shipped to over 30 countries worldwide. Each suspension shock absorber is manufactured by hand according to the modular principle. We only use high-quality materials from suppliers in Germany and Europe for our 'Made in Germany' products. Our aim is to offer customised top quality at an optimum price-performance ratio, supported by the German general operating permit and guaranteed delivery times.

From 2010 to 2022, we were active in the IDM Superbike Championship with our own development team. In collaboration with BMW and ZF, we created innovative developments that are still incorporated into our products today. Our customised Wilbers products are available for over 1,600 models. These include world firsts such as the Nivomat, bestsellers such as WESA and the innovative ZERO friction fork springs and forks as well as cartridges from 'Wilbers powered by ZF'. Convince yourself of our range!

Our strength: the individuality of our customers

Our primary goal is to develop suspensions that are customised to the needs and wishes of our customers.

To enable our employees to offer fair and objective advice, we need some information from our customers, such as the riding profile, the routes and surfaces on which the customer rides their motorcycle, as well as the weight in various options. Only then are we in a position to recommend the optimum suspension and show various options that fulfil the requirements and offer the adjustment options that are actually needed. In this way, the customer receives a unique Wilbers suspension that is handcrafted by one of our employees, taking into account the above-mentioned specifications.

We also attach great importance to the safety of smaller riders and offer optimum solutions for stability with ideal lowering for all suspension components without compromising the geometry and ergonomics of the motorcycle. As a medium-sized, yet family-run team, customer proximity, personal advice and the satisfaction of our customers are particularly important to us - this is our top priority.

Rides like a different motorbike, bad roads are no longer a problem!

Diverse. Individualised.
Personalised.

It is extremely important to us to understand the customer's wishes and to manufacture a customised product from them. Depending on the intended use and requirements, special options such as height and rebound adjustment or hydraulic and mechanical spring preload on the suspension are possible. Our modular system enables and emphasises the customised Wilbers suspension at the highest level. Customised engraving gives each shock absorber its own identity. Once assembly is complete, the shock absorber undergoes a final inspection and is tested for dimensions and function on a special test bench.

OUTSTANDING,
Compared to the standard suspension it makes a difference like day and night.

Quality at all levels

For us, quality at all levels means not only our high-quality products 'Made in Germany' and us as a TÜV-certified company, but also our quality promise to our customers: If, contrary to expectations, the suspension that has been customised and adapted to the customers driving behaviour is not satisfactory, we offer to revise the settings once within 6 weeks of delivery. So we will always find the right solution for you, we promise! In addition to the large selection of products and our focus on driving safety, we have further strong arguments on our side with our ISO certification according to the German ISO 9001 and ABE (general operating licence) for almost all suspension parts.

We are proud of the quality management system introduced in 2008 and the ISO 9001 certification obtained with it to this day. The ISO certificate forms the base for applying for general operating licences and TÜV certificates for our products. This ABE, or general operating licence, serves to regulate the approval of vehicle parts or accessories in Germany. It confirms that our suspension in your motorcycle meets the legal requirements and can therefore be used safely in road traffic.

Production by hand

Customised shock absorbers are created in our production facility using precise manual work based on a modular principle. Assembly is based on a parts list that has been drawn up in advance by an experienced employee specifically for this order. As a rule, a product leaves production after 10-14 working days. Express orders are produced on the same day as the order. The control and highest quality of our products have top priority. Based on the parts list, the required individual parts of the shock absorber are taken from the warehouse by the employee. This means that every production employee can assemble each shock absorber by hand at any time. Each suspension solution is individually customised to the customer.

Our portfolio includes everything from suspension absorber and forks to cartridges, oils and matching accessories. We have been continuously expanding our modular system for more than 40 years on the market. This ensures that our suspension components are always available, even for older models, and that we act sustainably: A 30-year-old suspension absorber can also be repaired by us. The requirements of our customers are always at the centre of our actions, which we meet with the highest quality of our products with up to 10 years warranty. Dedicated employees from all departments put their passion into their work, because we love what we do. This commitment is felt by the customers, especially when they experience a safe and comfortable driving experience. This is where we emphasise our slogan: Your bike. Our passion.

Interested in becoming a Wilbers partner?

We are always on the lookout for competent dealers and workshops who, like us, are really keen on high-quality, individually designed motorcycle suspensions.
